CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gale desire through The Enterprise to thank all who in any way assisted during the illness of their daughter, Marjorie Eleanor. Especially would they thank Dr. Stewart and nurses at the Blairmore hospital, those who sent flowers and loaned cars, and for the numerous expressions of sympathy with them in their bereavement.

The funeral of little Marjorie Eleanor Gale took place from the family residence on State Street east on Sunday afternoon, and was quite largely attended. An impressive service was held in Central United church by Rev. R. Upton, of Bellevue, and the remains were laid to rest in the Protestant cemetery. Chief among the mourners were: the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gale; Grandfather and Miss Gale, of Sentinel; Grandfather Arthur and Mrs. Shearer, of Turner Valley; George Shearer, of Chapman Camp, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shearer, of Blairmore. Four little Sunday school classmates, Misses Ellen Jones, Margaret Heywood, Rita Bonneau and Audrey Pinkey, were honorary pallbearers, while Eddie Arrol, Norman Walker, Charles Pifford and Douglas Allen were pallbearers.

KYLE-DUTFIELD

The flower-decorated interior of St. Paul's United church, Coleman, was the scene of a pretty wedding at 5 p.m. Wednesday, June 28, when Adelaide, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Duffield, senior, of Coleman, became the bride of William, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kyle, of Hillcrest. Rev. H. J. Bevan conducted the ceremony.

Entering the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the Wedding March, the bride looked charming in white net over white satin and carrying a bouquet of American beauty roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Kyle, sister of the groom, was lovely in pink net over pink tulle and carrying a bouquet of carnations. Mr. Arthur Duffield supported the groom. During the signing of the register, Mr. Edgar Rees, of Calgary, rendered the solo, "Here Is My Heart."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Over 100 guests sat down to the wedding supper. The table, centred by a three-tiered wedding cake, was decorated with a gorgeous assortment of wild flowers. Mr. Edgar Rees proposed the toast to the bride couple, the groom responding with a few well chosen words.

The following hostesses served the happy gathering: Mrs. E. Hill, Mrs. D. Griffiths, Mrs. L. Jones, Mrs. H. Fisher, Mrs. M. Phillips and Mrs. S. Penny.

After the supper, the happy young couple were given a rousing send-off as they departed on a short honeymoon trip to Montana. On their return they will reside in Coleman.

YOUTH TRAINING MOVEMENT PROGRESSES

Indications are that Alberta Health Week, which is current at the time of writing, is meeting with a good deal of support among business men and public generally. In connection with the educational feature of the campaign, it is worthy of note that the department of health distributes free literature on many health topics. Readers of The Blairmore Enterprise who wish to obtain a supply should write to the department in Edmonton.

Young Albertans to the number of 15,000 are expected to enrol in the 1939 youth training projects to be carried out this year. The projects are the result of a joint agreement between province and dominion. Cost to each government is estimated at $130,000—an increase over last year's costs of $10,000 to each government. In addition, the province is expecting to make available another $30,000 for forestry training, and the Dominion will likely match this amount.

Last year, the youth training projects were divided into six classes. Class "A" for re-establishment of rural youths and girls, with a total enrolment of 3,523. Class "B" enrolled 60 young foresters. Class "C" trained 120 home assistants, of whom 75 have already obtained work. Class "D" provided trade and industrial training for 1,051 young boys, of whom 538 were placed. Class "E" provided specialized farm training to 99 young agrarians. Class "F" enrolled 7,995 young men and women in the health and recreational course. These were divided into 99 groups in 35 communities, and it is expected that the number will be increased this year.

This year an additional class will be established. In it, at least 35 fortunate enrollees will obtain training in aeronautics.

Mrs. George Sangster, who recently returned to Calgary from a visit to Scotland, arrived in Blairmore on Friday morning last, accompanied by Mr. Sangster, who went to the city to meet her. They have taken up residence at the Greenhill hotel.

Mrs. Vaughn, who has been an active member of the chapter for several years, will be greatly missed.

DOMINION DAY SPORTS

The weather man treated Blairmore very kindly on July 1st, and as a result one of the biggest and most successful sports days in the history of the entire district was enjoyed.

It was the twelfth annual field day for the Blairmore Community Sports Association. The attendance was the largest on record, and every item on the programme was carried out without a single hitch.

A refreshment booth on the grounds was liberally patronized throughout the day and evening. The West Canadian Collieries band in their new uniforms added considerable to the pleasure of the event.

While no track and field records were broken or equalled, comparatively fast times were turned in by such well known athletes as L. Fournier, of Pincher Creek, who covered the 100 yards open in 10.15 seconds and jumped 42 feet in the hop, step and jump; Roy Maybie, of Calgary, who turned in 54.85 seconds for the 440 yards open and 2 minutes 14.25 seconds for the half mile run. Maybie also won the mile. In the 2½-mile marathon for boys under 19, J. McColl, Lethbridge, won easily from Art. Maisey, of Calgary.

The time schedule was thrown out of kilter in the afternoon, when in the first round of the baseball tournament, Hillspring and Hillcrest battled 13 innings before a decision was reached, Hillcrest eventually winning 3 to 1.

J. W. McPhee, Taber, and B. W. Bellamy, Wetaskiwin, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Alberta Branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, were interested spectators.

Blairmore Columbus Club went into the final of the baseball tournament when they defeated the Coleman Pucksters 4-3 in another hotly contested game.

Hammering out 12 safeties off the offering of four Hillcrest pitchers and staving off a late rally, Blairmore Columbus Club won the final game of the tournament by a score of 7-5 on Sunday afternoon. Score by innings: Hillcrest — 000 000 032-5 6 4 Blairmore — 101 004 108-7 12 2

Batteries: Draper, Seaman, Kubahek, Elick and Elick, Beranek, Dobek, Herman and Chala.

In the softball tournament, Bellevue defeated the Blairmore Terriors 12-1 in the first round, Blairmore Cardinals defeated Lundbreck 22-1 in the second round, and in the finals Bellevue defeated the Cardinals 12-9.

Alex. McKay and J. Turner, of Blairmore, won the quoits tournament and J. Anderson and Norman Oliver the horseshoe pitching contests.

Results of the junior events:

Running hop, step and jump: 1, H. Marcolin, Bellevue; 2, B. Wood, Taber. High jump: 1, H. Marcolin; 2, B. Wood.

100-Yards dash: 1, B. Fowler, Michel; 2, C. Cimolini, Bellevue; 3, D. Bland, Taber.

GROWN IN SUNNY SOUTHERN ONTARIO

A Declining Industry?

The fact that the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported a decrease of $21,000,000 in 1938 in expenditures made in Canada by incoming tourists is something which should give pause for reflection and inquiry, in the hope that this falling off in national income on this account can be discovered and the remedy found.

Tourist traffic in Canada has become a national industry of great importance to the prosperity of the country in the past few years. While in one or two years prior to the depression era higher figures were shown, the revenue to the people of this Dominion from this source has been steadily rising since 1932, reaching a post-depression peak of $294,882,000 in 1937 which, however, is still below the $309,379,000 of the record year of 1929. The following year, 1938, marked a recession of $21,000,000, the first, and it is to be hoped the last, decline since 1932.

What 1939 is to bring forth from this source is still in the lap of the gods, so far as the statisticians are concerned, but there seem to be some good reasons why the income lost in 1938 should be picked up and augmented.

Some Helpful Factors

In the first place, the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth drew thousands of Americans across the boundary to Canadian centres in May and June this year and this alone should go far towards balancing the differential between the 1937 and 1938 figures. Just about that time, and since, some improvement in business and economic conditions on both sides of the international boundary are reported, and this, in the ordinary course of events, should mean a material stimulus to this comparatively infant industry in Canada.

In some quarters it has been suggested that the condition of the roads in Canada, and particularly in the west, may have been partially responsible for the recent decline in the number of visitors from the United States, or at least in the amount of money they have spent here.

While there may be some truth in this reduction, it does not appear to be the major item in the reduction, since a break down of the figures indicates that the loss occasioned by a reduction in expenditures by tourists who came into Canada in 1938 by automobile is only approximately one million dollars.

While a reduction of one million dollars out of a total of $181,000,000 spent by tourists on wheels from the U.S. in 1937 is not a serious matter, it is a trend in the wrong direction and there is some possibility that road conditions may be partly responsible. Moreover, had the increase from 1936 to 1937 been sustained in 1938, the income from American tourists on the road would have shown an increase of $22,000,000 instead of decline of a million, or sufficient to offset the loss caused by the reduction of those who came in as visitors by boat, rail and aeroplane; in other words, an apparent loss of $23,000,000.

Need Improvement

Roads in Western Canada are not as good as they might be and probably would be if the provincial governments had the money to spend to put them in first class condition. On account of economic conditions they have necessarily been allowed to deteriorate and their condition has not been improved by a substantial increase in the past two or three years of heavy truck traffic.

Before these conditions are likely to be remedied and the highways put in a condition that will make them attractive to visitors from a country where good roads are the rule rather than the exception, it looks as if substantial sums of money will have to be expended and possibly further restrictions imposed on commercial trucks using the highways.

Taking into consideration the financial handicaps under which the provinces are laboring and the fact that the tourist industry is, or should be, a national asset, it would appear to be quite in order to suggest that further assistance might well be given by the federal government to the west to enable the provinces to embark on a more vigorous highway rehabilitation program than is now possible. It would seem conceivable that if some of the money well expended and in time would pay dividends not only to the provinces themselves but the country as a whole.

Then, too, it should not be overlooked that such work could be planned and devised to furnish employment and wages for a large number of men now idle and who are now being sustained by the country without any return for their upkeep.

The importance of the tourist industry is well summed up by Claude C. Bontier in a recent issue of "Canadian Business" when he says: "It may be unequivocally stated that revenues accruing to a country from tourist traffic represent net gains in the country's wealth. They constitute the great invisible balance of trade. Unlike other forms of trade, the tourist industry produces a dollar which is exchanged only for accommodation and services, rather than for exportable material. The country, in other words gains a dollar and loses nothing."

Find Indisputable Evidence That Norsemen Visited Canada

Prof. T. F. McIlwraith of the University of Toronto and the Royal Ontario Museum told the Ontario Historical Association that finds made in the Lake Nipigon district in recent years were indisputable evidence that Canada was visited by Norsemen 1,000 years ago. Prof. McIlwraith told the closing session of the society's convention that a sword, part of a shield handle and an axe-head, turned over to the museum by the Port Arthur man who found them, undoubtedly were of the 10th century.

Tossed A Coin

How Two Scotsmen Decided On Their Holdings In Quebec

Two hundred years after Jacques Cartier's return to France, two Scotsmen stood on the shores of La Malabar river in Quebec and tossed a coin to determine who would take the east side and who the west side of the domain. Both had served during the conquest under General Murray who granted them crown land at this location.

As a result of the toss, the east side fell to Malcolm Fraser and he named it Mount Murray in honor of his distinguished general. The west side also under the jurisdiction of John Nairne who also honored his general by calling it Murray Bay. It is interesting to note that on Nairne's property is to-day one of Canada's most popular vacation resorts, the historic Manoir Richelieu.

Vegetable Origins

They Come To Us As A Heritage From The Whole World

A few common beans once brought a price of $1,000, although $5,000 would have been paid for them by the famous Purples. They were for what is now known as the bush lima bean plant, which up to that time had grown as a climber on poles. An article in The Saturday Evening Post gives considerable history of how many of the finest products of the vegetable garden have been discovered.

Few people realize that the vegetable plot, however small, is a heritage from the whole world; corn, beans and squash were first civilized for it by the ancient cliff dwellers of the Southwest; your onions came from Palestine; your asparagus from Persia; North Europe gave you cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower; the tomatoes came from Peru; your melons from Persia, watermelons from Africa; beets and carrots are native to South Europe; your peas came from Egypt and your lettuce from China. It passes understanding how these plant immigrants from so many climes can adapt themselves to a land so different in soil, climate, latitude and altitude as undersea Imperial Valley, sea-level New Jersey, mile-high Colorado, tropical Florida and Northern Ontario.

As the writer concludes: "They don't always do it willingly, and that's why, on the seedmen's farms, the watchword is cross, backcross and doublecross."

Risk Of Food Shortage

Urges Britain To Buy Supplies Of Wheat From Canada

Sir Herbert Matthews, member of the Great War food ministry, told the congress of industrial transport that the United Kingdom runs a greater risk of food shortage at a breakdown of another war than in 1914.

The government food defence committee has no food to control and no means of defending it if they possessed it, he charged.

The wartime minister said that if the government were alive to its responsibilities, it would make large purchases of Canadian wheat immediately.

"We have a large capacity for oil," Sir Herbert said, "but in the most vulnerable positions. Like supplies of wheat, this oil should be spread over the country so that it might be readily available in times of emergency."

"Taking all things into consideration, this country is in a far worse position as regards its food supply than in 1914. The population is much larger, the number of merchant ships is much smaller, the land is in poor, half-starved condition and the number of farm workers has been largely reduced."

Old Moore's Almanac

Prophecy Of What Might Happen In Europe This Fall

Prime Minister Chamberlain advised people who want to know what's going to happen in Europe this fall to look it up in Old Moore's almanac, an annual publication popular in England. Mr. Chamberlain was addressing a Conservative party rally at Cardiff, Wales.

"Old Moore's is as likely to be right as I," he added.

And here is what Old Moore says: "In the first half of September there are signs of much tension in Berlin to be followed by calm in the latter half."

"In October foreign affairs will continue to be of supreme importance inasmuch as Venus is culminating at both Rome and Berlin."

"There is good ground for anticipating that the cause of peace will make further great headway, for conditions are certainly most propitious for a real and lasting understanding on a very wide and comprehensive scale."

Made Transfer Easy

How Wealthy German Got 200,000 In Stocks To England

Where there's a will there's a way. Listen to this story which is going round knowledgeable circles in London of the successful efforts of a wealthy German, now in London, to transfer 200,000 to England by an astute move.

A short time ago a firm of London solicitors received a letter from a German industrialist, asking one of its partners to visit him in Berlin. The expenses of the journey were to be amply defrayed. The solicitor duly arrived and after dinner was asked by the German to look through a number of English stock certificates that he had had before the Nazi regime, under which it was impossible to bring them to England. The London solicitor duly examined the certificates and made a note of them. The German then said: "Will you be so kind as to watch me carefully while I put each of these certificates in the fire?" He did so. Next day the solicitor returned to London, followed a few days later by his client, who did not even bring with him so much as an attache case.

In London, at the German's request, the solicitor filed an affidavit proving the destruction of the stock certificates, and, after the necessary lapse of six months, new certificates were issued. The German thus found himself again in possession of his 200,000, but in London!—Overseas Daily Mail.

The Escort Ships

Glasgow And Southampton Do Not Rank With Battle-Cruisers

The two cruisers that escorted the King and Queen on their return voyage in the Empress of Britain are splendid, modern vessels, the Southampton and the Glasgow, commissioned in 1933 and 1934, respectively. The cruisers are sister vessels of 9,100 tons with a complement of 700 men. They are armed with 12 6-inch guns and eight 4-inch guns, carry two airplanes and can speed 33 knots an hour. They are oil driven. They are not capital ships and do not rank with battle-cruisers or battleships.

During the Great War a light British cruiser called the Glasgow escaped from the disastrous battle of Coronel with the German Von Spee squadron in which two heavy British cruisers were sunk. The Glasgow joined forces with two British battle-cruisers and at the battle of the Falkland Islands a few weeks later destroyed a German light cruiser. The German squadron was wiped out. The admiralty always will keep the name Glasgow well represented in the British navy.—Toronto Star.

Books Written By Women

Collector Hopes To Have Every Country In World Represented

Grace Thompson Seton, one-time big game hunter and explorer, is using an interlude and her worldwide friendships with women to hunt out books written by women. Her goal is to complete for the National Council of Women, of which she is chairman of the committee of letters, a collection of books by women in which every country in the world will be represented. The collection will be known as the Bibles Femina and will not only cover the range of women's particular interests but will contain science, ecology, art and travel treatises.

Canada will be well represented in this unique library as Mrs. Seton has a special kinship with the Dominion. She is the former wife of Ernest Thompson Seton, one-time naturalist to the Government of Manitoba. It is likely one of her own works, "A Woman Tenderfoot in the Rockies," will find a place on the shelves of the Bibles Femina.

Her organization for the library has a world-wide base, she said. Every country has its chairman of letters on whom she relies for a selection of its representative women writers.

From the data she has collected, Mrs. Seton says she has discovered that "whereas the position of women in Europe is declining under the totalitarian governments, it is steadily rising in the Orient." Chinese women particularly, she said, continue to absorb the "eye-opening learning" of the Occident and have come out from the "orchid doors" into the world of business, education and medicine—and now even into the auxiliary army corps.

Long Range Field Gun

U.S. Gun Throws A 100-Pound Shell For 15 Miles

The United States army lifted secrecy from its newest and longest range field gun, a weapon that hurled a 100-pound shell 15 miles.

A 155-millimetre calibre gun, bulky but mobile, it fired a projectile in tests at Fort Bragg, N.C., which travelled about 25,000 yards and blew a hole 16 feet in the ground.

The shot was the longest ever fired from a standard American army field gun, Colonel Ralph M.C. Pennell, chairman of the Field Artillery Board, reported.

The weapon, developed by the army's own ordnance experts, has been adopted as standard for long range artillery fire and an undisclosed number are being turned out now at arsenals.

Describing it in the military periodical, "Army Ordnance," Pennell explained its function was bombardment of enemy reserves, supply dumps and communications far behind wartime lines of battle.

Newspaper Has Birthday

The Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph has observed its 175th birthday anniversary. Founded June 21, 1764, the Quebec Gazette, the newspaper became the Chronicle-Telegraph through amalgamations with the Morning Chronicle in 1874 and the Daily Telegraph in 1925.

BLUNT WORDS USED BY HALIFAX IN BROADCAST

London.—Lord Halifax, in a speech broadcast both here and abroad, declared that Britain is determined to resist aggression even at the cost of war.

"In event of further aggression we are resolved to use at once the whole of our strength in fulfillment of our pledges," the foreign secretary said during an address before the Royal Institute of International Affairs.

With these words he reaffirmed Britain's guarantees to Poland, Rumania, Greece and Turkey.

Lord Halifax at the same time answered Germany's charges of "encirclement" by asserting that she was isolating herself by her present policy, and could blame no one but herself for the consequences.

The speech was summarized by the British Broadcasting Corporation in its German language broadcast shortly after it was delivered.

"We read mischievous misrepresentations of our actions and our motives which some people in countries holding a different national philosophy from our own think fit to make," Lord Halifax said.

"We read them with resentment, knowing they are false, knowing those who make them know it too."

"These things do not pass unnoticed here, nor, I may say, do provocative insults offered to our fellow-countrymen further afield."

This latter phrase apparently was an allusion to the recent treatment of British subjects by Japanese officials at blockaded Tientsin, in the Far East, which Prime Minister Chamberlain has described as "intolerable."

"I can say at once," Lord Halifax declared, "that Britain is not prepared to yield either to calumnies or force."

Lord Halifax referred several times to the possibility that Britain's attitude might not be understood "elsewhere" and declared:

"The threat of military force is holding the world to ransom and our immediate task is to resist aggression. I want to emphasize that tonight with all the strength at my command so that nobody may misunderstand it."

"Germany is isolating herself and doing it most substantially and completely," he said. "She is isolating herself from countries economically by her policy of autarchy (self-sufficiency), politically by a policy that causes constant anxiety to other nations, and culturally by her policy of racialism."

Speaking of British guarantees to Poland, Rumania, Greece and Turkey, Lord Halifax said: "We have assumed obligations and are preparing to assume more with a full understanding of their causes and with a full understanding of the consequences."

"We know that if security and independence of other countries are to disappear, our own security and our own independence will be gravely threatened. We know that if international law and order are to be preserved we must be prepared to fight in its defence."

In this connection he mentioned negotiations now under way in Moscow on the proposed Anglo-Soviet mutual assistance pact, saying: "I hope there may very shortly be a successful issue."

Never since he became foreign secretary has Lord Halifax used such blunt, unmistakable language. He referred to Britain's "unchallengeable navy," her air force "which now has nothing to fear from any other," her small but powerful army which cannot be derided as in the past—allegedly dedicated to the preservation of "our own liberty and that of other people."

Postal Revenues Up

Ottawa.—Revenues of the post office department, frequently looked upon as a barometer of commercial conditions in Canada, indicate that there is an upward trend in business generally. Postmaster-General Norman McLeod said in a statement.

Paris.—French engineers who helped construct the Maginot line of fortifications facing Germany are to be sent to Turkey to advise the Turkish government on strengthening defences on the northern shores of the Dardanelles.

Skytop, Pa.—Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice of the United States, said he and Mrs. Hughes planned to leave shortly for Western Canada for a holiday in Jasper National Park.

No Election Date

Disturbed Conditions in Europe De-lays Announcement.

Ottawa.—Owing to the disturbed condition in Europe and the Far East, Prime Minister Mackenzie King will come to no early decision on the date of the general election, he said. He wishes to consider the prospects on both these continents carefully before launching Canada into an election campaign.

"At the moment matters are very serious," he said. "We all hope they are going to improve but I would like to take at least a part of the summer to consider both the European and Asiatic situations before launching the campaign."

It was possible, he added, that parliament might have to be called in special session to deal with a crisis as was contemplated last autumn at the time of the Munich affair.

"All things considered," he continued, "I believe much might be gained and nothing would be lost by waiting a few weeks before reaching a decision regarding a general election."

"I want to be perfectly frank about the matter. I don't say we won't have an election and I don't say we will. I want to consider it." No one could read the recent remarks of Premier Daldier of France about the gravity of the European situation without giving some thought to Canada's position. Coming from a man in Mr. Daldier's position the statement was grave.

A number of domestic matters were awaiting the government's decision and should be cleared up also before a decision was reached about an election. These included establishment of the defence purchasing board provided for in an act passed at the recent session. The government was considering possible appointments to the board.

Empire Planes

Great Britain's Plan To Build Empire Air Lines.

London.—A crisp-spoken government officer told of Great Britain's scheme to make the aeroplane Europe's most talked-of instrument of rearmament. It means to bind closer together the English-speaking world.

To Sir Kingsley Wood, air minister, the man who created the one-shilling telephone call for a plane to the British Isles, falls the job of spending more than £200,000,000 (almost $1,000,000,000) a year on aviation.

But he seems more concerned with the commercial aspects of flying than with the military. Already constructed are flying boats of 72,000 pounds. Under construction are a land plane of 71,000 and a smaller one of 43,000, all designed for use as a means to help link the Empire and English-speaking people.

Empire planes now fly routes totaling 70,000 miles. They link the star-shaped tip of Africa and Australia with London. They serve the north-dominion traffic. Projected are trans-Atlantic lines from Vancouver to Auckland, New Zealand, and a route curving southward around the west coast of Africa supplementing the inland route.

By autumn, an Australia-to-New Zealand air service will be in operation.

World Wheat Crop

Lower This Year Prediction Of Bureau Of Agricultural Economics.

Washington.—Acreage reduction in the United States and lower yields in Europe prompted the bureau of agricultural economics to predict that the world wheat crop would be nearly 600,000,000 bushels below last year's production of 4,555,000,000. The July 1 carryover, however, will be "about double" the 1938 figure of 600,000,000 bushels, the bureau forecast.

In the northern hemisphere, exclusive of China and the Soviet Union, a yield of about 500,000,000 bushels was indicated. Production in the southern hemisphere was estimated at 75,000,000 bushels less than last year "if growing conditions are about average for the remainder of the season."

Production increases were predicted in Canada and north Africa.

Miraculous Escape

Kingsdon, Ont.—Trapped for five minutes in 16 feet of water when his automobile plunged into the St. Lawrence river from a ferry dock, Albert Docteur, 58, escaped after breaking a window. He suffered only minor cuts and shock but was unable to reveal how he remained so long under water.

Johannesburg.—South Africa's parliament has passed a bill to control aliens living in the union.

Marketing Conference

Committee To Meet In Saskatchewan At An Early Date

Calgary.—Alberta members of the western marketing and adjustment committee met here to discuss plans for a full committee conference to be held in Saskatchewan in about a fortnight, said C. B. Davidson of Winnipeg, committee secretary.

Mr. Davidson said he expected to go to Regina to get views of the Saskatchewan members. The conference will be held either in Regina or Saskatoon, he said.

Among the 15 to 20 members and non-members who participated in the discussions were L. W. Brockington, D. G. McKenzie and Mr. Davidson, all of Winnipeg.

GRAIN ELEVATOR FIRMS TO LAUNCH REPAIR PROGRAM

Winnipeg.—Although definite estimates were not forthcoming and company heads remained more or less silent, grain elevator firms indicated they would launch shortly on a huge repair and renovating program in expectations of a bumper crop.

Not since 1928, when 544,508,000 bushels of wheat were produced in the West, has the crop outlook been so promising. Elevator companies are expected to expend about $3,000,000 in repairing and renovating the 5,679 elevators across the prairies for the harvest, according to grain circle estimates.

It was believed at least 150 elevators, closed during the droughty reign of the last few years, would be reopened. Last year about 5,390 were operated. One firm said it planned to reopen 50 elevators, one of which had been closed for seven years.

However, officials refused any authoritative comment as the season is young yet and grasshoppers, rust and frost might blacken the picture. Moisture conditions over the prairie grain belt are the best since 1928, a record crop year, according to a report issued here by the Searle Grain Company, Limited.

The present condition is shown as 123 per cent, figuring the long time average or normal at 100, compared with 115 per cent last week and 96 per cent a year ago.

By provinces, with last year's figures in brackets, the report shows: Alberta, 115 (90); Saskatchewan, 135 (84); Manitoba, 89 (85).

Warsaw.—A group of Jews chased across the Polish border from Germany brought with them the bodies of several killed by shots at the Silesian frontier, a Jewish relief official said.

Defence For Australia

Dominion Is Preparing To Meet Any Sudden Attack

On the theory that Australia must be prepared to meet a sudden, concentrated attack if war comes, without immediate aid from the north-land, the government is leaving nothing undone to guard against the danger of a "knockout" blow.

Already provision has been made for the expenditure of £70,000,000 ($327,000,000) on defence for the three years ending June, 1941. This year alone Australia will spend approximately £26,000,000 at the rate of about £50 a minute. This outlay represents more than 42 per cent against £8 per capita in the United Kingdom and is the highest of all the dominions.

During the next three years the navy expenditure will amount to more than £21,000,000, the army's expansion will account for about £20,000,000 and the air force £17,000,000. Expenditure on plant construction, munitions and other outlays will boost the total in excess of £70,000,000.

Valuable Securities Left In Street Car At Vancouver

Vancouver.—Street Car Motorman Roy Dinmore found an old bag under a seat in his car at the end of the line recently.

He didn't think much about it until an excited street car inspector drove up, stopped him and asked for the bag.

"There's only $26,000 worth of negotiable securities in that bag," the inspector said.

The bag had been left on the street car by an elderly couple who believed it would be safer to take their valuables with them when they went sight-seeing.

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation Receives Award In New York

New York.—The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was awarded a certificate of merit by the National Federation of Free Women for "availing to the world-wide alliance the radio series most effectively promoting international peace — 'The State of Nations,' sponsored by the New York world fair."

Major W. Gladstone Murray, general manager of the CBC, accepted the award at the annual dinner of the press women. Certificates also were awarded to other major broadcasting companies which relayed the program and to Dr. John S. Young, who conceived the series.

NAZI AGGRESSION ONLY WOULD BE CAUSE OF WAR

London.—Great Britain replied to Chancellor Hitler's charge that Britain "must always be hostile to Germany" by declaring that only an act of aggression by the reich could bring about British hostility.

The foreign office made public a note delivered by the British ambassador, Sir Neville Henderson, in Berlin, replying to Hitler's recent abrogation of the 1935 Anglo-German naval agreement and to the German government's memorandum delivered simultaneously with Hitler's action.

The note denied Britain was attempting encirclement of the Reich. Quoting the German memorandum to the effect the Reich had agreed to limit its navy "on the basis of the firm conviction that for all time recurrence of a war-like conflict between Germany and Great Britain was excluded," but that developments since then had shown Britain "must always be hostile to Germany," Britain answered:

"Great Britain could only be hostile to Germany if Germany were to commit an act of aggression against another country; and the political decisions to which it is understood the German government refer in their memorandum, involving guarantees by Great Britain to certain countries, could only operate if the countries concerned were to be attacked by Germany."

The naval agreement was denounced by Hitler last April 27 during a lengthy address in which he explained Germany's occupation of Bohemia and Moravia and also condemned Britain's non-aggression moves on their continent.

The note further warned Berlin estimates as to further naval tonnage should be disregarded in view of cancellation of the treaty.

It indicated Britain is willing to negotiate a new naval agreement but asked what assurances Berlin could give that such a pact would not be scrapped as summarily as the 1935 pact.

"It is not the case that in whatever part of Europe Germany might be 'involved' in warlike conflict, Britain must always take up an attitude hostile to Germany," the note said, answering one of Hitler's statements.

After pointing out Britain would be hostile to the Reich only in cases of over acts of aggression against another country, and where the United Kingdom has given guarantees to those countries, the note added that the London government had had no desire to restrict German trade.

"His Majesty's government would look forward to further discussion of measures for the improvement of Germany's economic position if only the essential pre-condition could be secured, namely, the establishment of mutual confidence and goodwill which is a necessary preliminary to calm, unprejudiced negotiation," said the note.

In the 1935 pact Germany agreed to limit her total naval tonnage to 35 per cent of Britain's.

The note advised Germany that Britain would be glad to receive indication of the scope and purpose of any other agreement the Reich wishes to negotiate to replace the provisions of the previous treaty.

Britain reminded Germany of the words of Joachim Von Ribbentrop, now foreign minister, who negotiated the 1938 agreement when he was ambassador-at-large describing the pact as a "permanent" agreement. Britain also pointed out the agreement had no provision for a one-sided denunciation.

CONDITIONS IN WEST FAVORABLE FOR A BIG CROP

Winnipeg.—Western Canada's wheat harvest may be late this year but it may be comparable with the big crop years of 1928 and 1932 if present conditions are maintained.

Moisture conditions are the best in more than a decade in practically every district of the prairie wheat belt, the grasshopper menace has been held in check by wet weather, and warm weather to mature the fast growing grain is spreading across the west after recent rainfall.

The need to-day is warm weather; that is the report coming from all provinces including the major drought lands of Saskatchewan where ditches are water-filled and roads muddy for the first time in years.

Farmers talk of a big crop year, remembering the 400,000,000-bushel yield of 1932 and the record returns of 1928 when 500,000,000 bushels of wheat were harvested on the prairies. Preparations for handling a large crop are under way, promising increased employment for farm hands and for industrial workers in urban centres who supply the equipment necessary for the renovation of country elevators, scores of which will be re-opened after long disuse during the poor harvest years.

There is a smaller percentage of the crop advanced to the shot blade stage than in 1932, but in the light of warm weather rapid growth will follow though harvesting may be later than a year ago. Wheat averages from 13 to 21 inches in height, Manitoba fields, where the crop is much further advanced than in Saskatchewan and Alberta, reporting the highest grain.

Comparatively negligible damage by grasshoppers, cutworms and rust all has contributed to the bright prospects.

Rust does not offer the same menace as in other years. A great percentage of the west's 24,000,000 acres of wheatears are growing rust-resistant grain, a protection against attacks that have cost western agriculturists millions of dollars in recent years.

An Apt Pupil

Ottawa Man Learns To Operate Airplane Between Dawn And Dusk

Ottawa.—Saxon Cole, 26-year-old department of agriculture worker, can fly an aeroplane but he didn't know a thing about it when he got out of bed one morning recently.

Cole learned to fly between dawn and dusk, the first time the feat has been accomplished in Canada in the memory of government civil aviation officials.

A flight with a friend decided Cole there was something to flying. He joined the Ottawa Flying Club and reported to Instructor William Nixon at 7 a.m. In 15 minutes they were in the air in a dual-controlled light monoplane. After 5½ hours of instruction, with time out for lunch and dinner, Instructor Nixon nodded approvingly and said: "Get up alone."

It was 9 p.m. and dusk was falling as Cole went aloft for his first solo flight.

ON HIS WAY OUT

Premier William Aberhart is on his way out of power, and no politician in the history of Canada so readily deserves such fate. Disintegration and dissension are rampant in the politico-religious group which Mr. Aberhart so zealously built up in order to become premier, and the probability is that it will fly to pieces whenever the next election is held. The flare of enthusiasm which rose to a peak in the summer of 1935 has died down and the premier and his lieutenants are having a difficult time trying to rekindle the flame among the divided followers.

When the Social Credit government was elected it was predicted that the millenium had arrived in Alberta. Was not the government in the hands of a christian man of great ability, who had worked out a formula based on Major Douglas' teachings, to bring plenty to every resident of the province? Who will ever forget the Aberhart-Manning tableaux in which assurance was given that every adult would obtain a monthly dividend of $25, just prices would be provided for farm products, taxation would be lessened, non-interest bearing production loans would be available to all, and plenty and happiness would reign supreme?

Four years of Aberhartism have revealed that his 1935 campaign was the biggest hoax ever perpetrated on an electorate. The cloak of religion, which was given the movement, has not added any prestige.

Now Mr. Aberhart and his followers stand discredited before the Alberta electorate and the people of Canada and the world. In fact, it is reported that the premier and provincial secretary are hunting "funk holes" in an effort to secure their reelection. Surely they will not be such cowards as to refuse to run again in the constituencies they have represented since 1935.

The period of Aberhartism in Alberta is a discredit in the political history of the province. Even the last few years of the old Liberal government, when that party had gone to seed because of too long a term in power, were decent years compared with what the Social Credit government has inflicted on Alberta.—The Hanna Herald.

A man died in Alberta recently whose christian name was "Sakri." Ask some of your French friends what that means.

One nice thing to be said about the present day dresses is that a woman never worries the merchant asking if it will shrink.

The chain-letter mania has reached New York again and this time no money is involved—only wives. Men-at-town have begun to receive letters which say: "This chain was started in Reno in the hope of bringing happiness to all. Unlike most chains, this one does not cost you any money. Send a copy of this letter to five male friends, then bundle up your wife and send her to the person who heads the list. When your name works up to the top of the list you will receive 15,175 women." And some of the fellows around this town who clicked on the last lot of chain letters are pretending they're not interested any more.

THE CANADIAN WEEKLIES

Next Friday and Saturday the Ontario and Quebec division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association is to meet at Ottawa. This annual gathering is a reminder of the fine part played by the weekly press in Canadian life and affairs; of its splendid contribution to the areas which it serves. It performs a service which some city people are apt to underestimate. They underestimate, too, perhaps, the importance of the smaller communities in which many of the weeklies are published. These communities supply the nation with more than their share of its foremost men and women; leaders in the professions, in business life, in public life. In journalism, as in other spheres of activity, many important posts are held by men who had their early training on a weekly newspaper.

There is a reason for this. The weeklies are closer to their field and to the life of the people than any metropolitan newspaper can hope to be. Their writers know personally many of those about whom they write. They have their fingers upon the community pulse. They are in touch with the thoughts and manner of life of the men and women of their constituencies to a degree which in a larger constituency is not possible. And they learn to be accurate. If there is a mistake in name or initials or in the facts about a local gathering, they soon hear about it. So the training afforded by a weekly newspaper is invaluable in its relation to the realities of human experience and the importance of faithful reporting.

A metropolitan newspaper cultivates its field "extensively"; a weekly "intensively." The former reaches out into far corners of the world for news of what is happening there. The latter concentrates on its own district in a way which a city paper cannot possibly do. Instead of foreign correspondents, it has close-to-home correspondents—country correspondents who are usually called—who send in weekly budgets of news from places round about. These rural part-time newspapermen and newspaperwomen make a genuine contribution to the paper which they serve, and some of them serve it for a lifetime. They give it a home touch which the metropolitan press cannot provide.

But lifetime service is not a monopoly of country correspondents. There are weeklies which have been under the management of one man for as long as most people can remember. They have taken on his personality, and he and his paper are one in the eyes of the community. In some cases, indeed, a paper has been handed down from father to son, and in turn to the son's son, until it is regarded not only as the product of an individual, but as the product of a family. On the other hand, there are weeklies which have been taken over by men trained on city dailies, and some of these have made a conspicuous success. There is a fine reciprocity in it all: the weeklies making their contribution to the city papers, and the city papers to the weeklies.

One of the finest men which weekly journalism ever gave to Toronto or to any other city was the late Joseph T. Clark, editor of The Star—and on this paper there are many others who have had their training in smaller centres. The publisher himself graduated from a weekly, and was secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Press Association when it included both dailies and weeklies. Mr. Clark was at one time editor of a weekly paper in Pickering, and, as the Bowmanville Statesman remarks, "never lost his delight in the incidents of town and country life." This was well known to those about him. His heart was great enough to include all, but in the last analysis its warmest heart was for the small places and the small papers.

It is fitting, therefore, that a trophy which the publisher of The Star is donating to the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association for annual competition should be a Joseph T. Clark memorial, and so named. It is

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

(T. R. Windsor)

Edmonton, July 3.—Social Credit as a federal party ducked into cover last week under the wing of Hon. W. D. Herridge's "New Democracy" party. The past claims of Social Credit sympathizers that the economic theories of that name require a national party in power at Ottawa to implement them constitutionally disappeared, in the wind.

Premier William Aberhart, of Alberta, following the steps of the Social Credit organizations in Saskatchewan and other provinces, hastened to embrace Herridge's new party in federal politics and said that Social Credit-ers would be "eligible" for nomination as "New Democracy" candidates for parliament.

The leading figure in "Social Credit" politics since the British organization of Major C. H. Douglas collapsed early this year and left Douglas in oblivion, Aberhart has been nursing Herridge's projected party along for many weeks past. As soon as Herridge made a speech in Toronto last Wednesday, declaring himself in the political field, Social Credit M. P.'s met in Edmonton for the second time in a week and issued a statement saying they were all for Herridge. Aberhart did them a favor by saying what they had not mentioned, that they could be nominated as "New Democracy" candidates in the next election.

"I have been slow to support this movement," said Aberhart in a statement Friday, "until I could hear its working principles and its definite objects fully declared. These we have heard now, and it is with some degree of pleasure that I declare my wholehearted support of the same."

Herridge's platform was announced in his speech, and made promises of benefits to everyone except the wicked "international finance," the sinful "reactionaries" and those poor unimpaired people who believe in arithmetic and so might wonder how he could keep all his promises at once. Herridge out-promised Aberhart. He promised higher prices to producers, but lower prices to consumers; higher wages to everybody, but less spend between cost and selling price; solution of the railway problem; but a whole new railway system; attention to the law of supply and demand, but greatly increased production; increased purchasing power, but death to the protection of the foreign dollar by which necessary imports are brought into the country at fair prices; public ownership, but encouragement to private initiative; away with traffic, but no importation of anything which can be produced in Canada.

The body of a man, in a bad state of decomposition, was found last week in the Flathead Valley, some sixteen miles south of Corbin. His identity could not be established, and the remains were buried after the coroner had decided an inquest not necessary. It is, however, thought that the body may be that of a man who left Corbin April 10th for the Flathead, after being warned that he could not make progress south that way owing to heavy depth of snow. He refused to give his name, but said he was from Quebec. James Burns, a trapper in the Flathead, reported that his cabin had been entered some time ago, a towel cut up and a small bottle of iodine used; and that an attempt had been made to light a fire, and that three or four pounds of cornmeal had been taken. Mr. Burns followed the tracks, which showed that the person was staggering for a short distance, but lost trace of them.

to be awarded the best all-round newspaper published in a town or village of 1,500 or less. And this year it will be presented by the late Mr. Clark's talented son, Mr. Gregory Clark. It is a symbol not only of the late "Joe" Clark's affection for the "brethren" of the weeklies, but of The Star's continued appreciation of their splendid service to their communities and to Canada.—Toronto Daily Star.

Their Majesties Accept Hikers' Badges

As souvenirs of their hike to the summit of Tunnel Mountain during their visit to Banff, Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth have both graciously accepted the silver insignia of the Sky Line Trail Hikers of the Canadian Rockies. King George borrowed an alpenstock from the Sky Line Trail Hikers which he used for his mountain-seeing adventure, and at the suggestion of Dana McCowan, President of this organization, the Parks Branch of the Canadian Government has been asked to erect a cairn on the top of Tunnel Mountain to be named after King George, and also to erect a lookout at a point known as the green spot on Honey Square Mountain to be called Queen Elizabeth's View, as Her Majesty was particularly delighted with the panorama of the Canadian Rockies at Banff from that point.

The Sky Line Trail Hikers is active in promoting hiking expeditions through the trails of the National Parks in the Canadian Rockies, and holds an annual four day camp which will be located next August 4-7 in Fairman Valley, north of Lake Louise. One just has to wonder what the banks had ever done to a guy like Poppi to make him so death against them. Probably the last loan was hard to meet or the last request for one was not granted. Now, any Social Creditor, after four years of experiment, should find loans galore absolutely interest free and never have to worry about repayment. For this and many other reasons Social Creditors should feel proud of their government.

We got no tip from the King himself, but are willing to bet that, of all the addresses of welcome, he liked Roosevelt's best. It was concise, meaty and appropriate. It goes into a few inches of type, like his own reply. The second best was from the Mayor of London—two lines of type. MEMORY'S NICHE

(Miss M. Titus)

In memory's niche I've stored away
A host of lovely things;

The lilting notes from feathered throats,
The flash of bluebirds' wings.

A squirrel frisking on the wall
Of moss-grown stone or rail,
The tang of frost on bare brown fields,
A glimpse of deer or quail.

A wedge of wild geese 'gainst the sky,
The thud of nut on leaves,
The colors of the autumn woods,
The web a spider weaves.

The chirp of cricket; frogs in spring,
And fire-flies at night
That dance above a dew-drenched field
Where mist is hanging white.

A pollen-laden humbly, a wide mouth above a nest;
The drip of rain, the gleam of sun,
And bright clouds in the west.

The tracks of furred and feathered folk
On freshly-fallen snow,
All these, and millions, millions more,
My treasured memories show.

Aberhart's government are now taking business away from Alberta insurance agents. Why not take over and operate all business in the province and let the government tax themselves. Alberta today is not even a fit place for an agent to locate in.

Finding that timber wolves and cougars are so numerous as to constitute a menace to big game and other wild animals, as well as pasturing domestic stock, the Alberta government has allowed a bounty of $10 on each timber wolf and $20 for each cougar; and for every wolf pup a bounty of $5.

POLITICIANS, BEWARE!

Unique Ceremony

Mr. Shulhass Redfern knighted by the King of the Railway Train. Mr. Shulhass Redfern, of Ottawa, enjoys the unique distinction on this continent of having been invested personally with a knighthood by the King on a railway train.

When King George gave the customary sword taps on the shoulders and said, "Rise, Sir Shulhass," in the royal train somewhere between Truro, N.S., and Halifax, he conferred triple distinction on the young secretary to Lord Tweedsmuir, Canada's governor-general.

It was the first time that such an honor had been conferred personally on this side of the Atlantic. It was the first time, so far as known, that such a ceremony ever took place aboard a moving train—or any other train for that matter.

As Sir Shulhass is a citizen of Great Britain, he does not fall under the Canadian ban against titles being accepted.

License To Fish

Visitors To National Parks Must Pay For Privilege Of Fishing. After April 1, visitors to several of Canada's western national parks must have licenses if they want to fish. Provision for licenses was made in an order-in-council published in the Canada Gazette. Parks affected are Jasper, Banff, Waterton Lakes, Yoho and Kootenay.

Originally it was intended to require the licenses this year but the department of mines and resources, which has jurisdiction over national parks, decided to shelve the proposal for one year because railways, hotels, tourist agencies and other interests had distributed advertising saying no fishing licenses were required this year.

Previously no licenses were required but under the new regulation riders of the province in which the parks are located will be required to have licenses costing $2 a season while for non-residents the cost will be $5 a season or $1 a day.

Glass That Shrinks

Virtually Immune To Cracking From Heat Or Cold. A new kind of glass which shrinks by one-third in size after it has been formed into dishes or other utensils is announced by the Corning Glass Works. The shrinking is done by heating and results in a glass that is virtually immune to cracking from sudden changes of heat or cold.

This new glass is made of the same materials used to cast the 200-inch "eye" of the world's greatest telescope at Corning, N.Y., a few years ago.

Community Gardens

Have Proved Success On Indian Reserves Throughout Canada.

Community gardens and farms on Indian reserves in Canada are proving successful both from an economic and health viewpoint, according to the Indian Affairs Branch of the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa. By providing a plentiful supply of vegetables, the community gardens have made possible a more varied diet for the Indians which has resulted in a general improvement in their physical condition.

Community gardens on the reserve have also served to stimulate the interest of the Indians in their individual gardens. In one agency, before the advent of the community garden, 4,000 Indians raised only about 2,000 bushels of vegetables in a year. With the introduction of the community garden 4,000 bushels were produced in it the first year and 5,000 bushels of vegetables were grown in the individual gardens of the Indians. Soon the total production of the agency was increased to 20,000 bushels. At first large root cellars were made to store the produce but later the Indians learned to can and preserve of their own, and the community root houses are now used only for the surplus stores and seed.

The first step in the introduction of community gardens to the Indian reserves is the education of the Indians to the idea. When this has been accomplished the management of the gardens can be entirely the work of the natives. The Chief and Councilors of the tribe act as overseers and appoint suitable Indians as foremen. At the end of the season a committee is formed for the distribution of the crop. A record is kept of the work done by each Indian, and those who do not work do not share in the proceeds.

Community farms so far established are also producing excellent results. The Indians receive food supplies in return for their work on the farm, which help considerably to make them self-sufficient.

Interesting Relics Found

May Have Belonged To Officer Who Defended Canada In 1812

A discovery that may have historic importance locally was made at Dundurn Park by three Hamilton boys who found relics bared by a landslide that appear to be those of a British officer who fought in the defence of Canada during the war of 1812-14. The find, it is believed, has revealed a burial place previously unknown to historians. Authorities were notified in order that the scene might be guarded against intrusion by souvenir hunters. The boys were out hiking when they found the relics.

Chief among them was a solid silver medal about two and a half inches in circumference, and a silver wristband which may have distinguished a ranking British officer during the war.

The medal, the boys hope, may prove to be of considerable value. It bears the likeness of George III. on one side. On the other is a composite scene showing a church, forest and crags at the foot of which a lion is resting, unconcerned while a dog barks at its heels.

The wristband at first thought to be brass, but burnishing proved it was of silver and disclosed an engraving of a bear seated beside a tree stump, evidently enjoying a feed of honey from a bee's nest it has found.

In addition to these articles, there was a uniform button and moulty fragments of cloth, some of which retained their red dye, more than 125 years under the sod.

Lost Painting Recovered

Painted Disappeared From Chicago Columbia Exhibition 46 Years Ago. A painting by Jan Styka, Polish artist, which disappeared while on exhibition at the Chicago Columbia exhibition in 1893, has been found hanging in a church, it was disclosed at Philadelphia.

Until he died 14 years ago, Styka searched for the painting. It bore the title "Queen of Poland Pray For Us." When found it had been changed to "Our Lady Blessing the World."

The painting was presented to the Catholic church of the Gesù by a parishioner, now dead, who purchased it at an auction.

Last February Edward A. Newman, art instructor at St. Joseph's college, found the true title inscribed on the painting. He communicated with Styka's son, Tade, a New York portrait painter.

The King and Queen are reported to be in better health than when they arrived in Canada. The Dominion is a healthier place since their visit.

SMARTNESS TO SLENDERIZE YOU

By Anne Adams

Summer entertaining will be something to look forward to when you have a cool, fashionable new dress like this on hand! You'll find the lines of Anne Adams' new Pattern 4145 give curves a slimmer look... for that bodice fullness under the rounded, lace-trimmed yoke is so gracefully soft, while the skirt smooths the hips and flares at hem with most delicate chic. Comfort too is a great consideration... note it especially in the ease under the yoke back and the shaping of the two sleeve versions, one prettily slashed, the other rippling loosely to above the elbow. Delicate prints like that sketched—or plaitone creases—will add to the illusion of slimmest.

Pattern 4145 is available in women's sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 38 takes 3½ yards 36 and 50. Size 50 takes 3½ yards 36 and 50. (Stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly for Name, Address and City. Send stamps and send order to the Anne Adams' Pattern Dept., Winnipeg (Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg).

New Machine Created Speech Out Of Roar Of An Airplane

Engineers from the motion picture studios in Hollywood listened to a strange new machine which created speech out of the roar of an airplane and out of the puffing of a locomotive.

The voice of a baritone was converted into that of a soprano, and that of a single crooner came out of the loud-speaker as a trio.

Some day when the machine may be put to practical use in the movies, suggested Homer Dudley, Bell Telephone Company Engineer and one of the originators of the electrical instrument.

It may provide the voices for animal cartoons, may even give Donald Duck's irritated speech new screen appeal.

It was the first public demonstration for the machine, made of wood, and the first time such a laboratory model—rather than a completed product—has been presented to technicians for suggestions as to its use.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JEROBAM: A MAN WITH A GREAT OPPORTUNITY

Golden text: In all thy ways acknowledge him. And he will direct thy paths. Proverbs 1:3. Lesson: I Kings 11:26-43. Devotional reading: Proverbs 4:1-9.

Explanations and Comments. Jeroboam's Rise to Power, I Kings 11:26-28. Jeroboam, a young man of the Northern Tribe of Ephraim, was among the subjects of Solomon engaged in forced labor in adorning Jerusalem, Solomon's capital. He was "a mighty man of valor," and very industrious. Solomon observed his efficiency and made him overseer of all the relays of labor required from the house of Joseph—the tribes of Ephraim and Manasse—

a position which enabled Jeroboam to stir up his fellow laborers' jealousy of the Southern Tribes and their hatred of Solomon, the oppressor.

The Prophet Ahijah's Symbolic Act, I Kings 11:29-33. One day as Jeroboam was leaving Jerusalem, Ahijah, thinking, no doubt, of his ambition for power, he met the prophet Ahijah. Jeroboam aside into a field where they would be alone, Ahijah took hold of the new outer garment of the tribes. It was customary in those days to emphasize important communications by symbolic acts: compare I Kings 22:11; Isaiah 20; Jeremiah 18:1-12; Ezekiel 12; Zechariah 11:7, 10, 14.

Condition to Be Fulfilled, I Kings 11:37-39. Ahijah repeated the promise that Jeroboam should be king of Israel. There was, however, a condition to be fulfilled. He would have a "sure house," or long dynasty, descended from the throne of Israel, provided he hearkened unto God's commands and kept them as David had done. The condition was not fulfilled, and his house came to an end in the second generation.

Jeroboam's Flight, I Kings 11:40-43. Jeroboam grasped at the promise of coming power but was heedless of the warning. Unwilling to await Solomon's death, he planned a revolution. Solomon learned of this and sought to kill him, but Jeroboam escaped to the king of Egypt and remained there until the death of Solomon.

Good Pasturage. Fresh Grass With Sugar Is A Fine Dish For Humans. Can man live on grass? Mr. J. R. Brannon, a retired officer and farmer, has been experimenting. "Seriously you don't mean that you do eat grass?" he was asked in an interview. "I solemnly and seriously do," replied Mr. Brannon.

"I'm doing so good well on it that I want other people to know. I have learnt from scientists that grass contains all the most valuable vitamins, especially B1, and that it is when the growth is fresh. When I was horse breeding and dairy farming I became fully alive to the efficiency of grass as food stuff. For two years grass and alfalfa have been the staple of my diet. I am using more and more of it as I go on. And the results are gratifying. I have been an athlete all my life—rigger, rowing, riding—but under normal circumstances age puts a stop to that. Well, I'm rising off and again I have not got back all the resiliency of youth, I have more enthusiasm for life than I had as a young man in my prime. I went for a run just for the fun of the thing last morning, and I have cycled over 90 miles on occasions without getting tired."

"There is another aspect of grass eating too—it reduces the cost of living enormously. I eat it raw, but, of course, it must be made appealing. I eat mine with raw carrots, beetroot, and brown sugar, and it goes down very well. My breakfast this morning came out of the Balmah bowling green. Young grass is rich in chlorophyll—the stuff they sell in tablets these days. I assure you, and scientific experiments confirm my view, that if we could make grass-eating universal, we could produce a star or five times as much natural food per acre as we do now by growing wheat. When you think of the number of people starving in the world at the moment, what enormous benefit grass-eating will be to humanity."

"Yet let me give you one word of warning. Don't rush off and think you can live on grass immediately. You can't do it in a moment what I have done in two years. Gently eat it. Try some grass in your next salad to begin with."—The Listener (London).

"I am a Salesman!"

NATURALLY, I am away from home a great deal, but household expenses continue and must be paid each month.

This presented a problem to my wife and me until our banker suggested we open a 'joint' account on which either of us could draw in the absence of the other.

Now, when I am away from home, my wife can pay her household bills promptly, by simply drawing a cheque on our 'joint' account. She always has money immediately available, because I have arranged with my firm to deposit my salary on pay days.

Incidentally, the cancelled cheques are receipts for money expended, and the entries in our cheque book stubs help me to make up our household accounts when I get home again.

Should you or your wife wish to open a joint account for your mutual convenience, our local branch will be glad to arrange it for you.
